Donation helps future teachers honor children

Although children are certainly the future of Angola, they are definitely the present. Angola is making sure that the present is as hopeful as the future for Angola's children.

Soyo (formerly known as Santo António do Zaire) is a city located in the province of Zaire in the northern region of Angola, which is located at the mouth of the Congo river. ABJV has a warehouse operating from the Kwanda Base in Soyo, which is a logistics base supporting several offshore and onshore oil and gas companies and projects in Angola.

Considering its presence in Kwanda Base since 2016, ABJV Management, the ABJV Logistics Team with the support of the Human Resources Department, took the initiative this last months to donate beds, mattresses and freezers, which had in storage and were no longer being used by the company.

The team operating from Soyo requested the approval from the Soyo Municipality Administrator which indicated two (2) Catholic institutions which main mission is housing and educating local orphan children, to be the recipients of the mentioned goods.

The Paróquia do Kikudo (Kikudo Parish) and Missão do Mpinda (Mpinda Mission School – Girls Orphanage), were the two (2) Catholic institutions ABJV supported with this third initiative, although recognizing that for these institutions there still a significant shortage of beds and mattresses, and that the supply of water and electricity are still a major challenge. Therefore, there is still much to be done to support the local community.

Our logistics team personally delivered the donations, in a very simple yet very emotional event, having the privilege of presence of the deputy Administrator of the Soyo Municipality, Mr. José Londa, who was very honoured and proud of ABJV's gesture and in the Mpinda Mission, the team was surprised and appreciative with the presence and performance of a musical choir composed by the local children, which is in Angola a symbol of THANK YOU and We Appreciate it!

Again, many thanks to all! It was a fantastic day!

More initiatives to come from ABJV Group.
